New Contherm Europe Facility Opens in Cambridge

The new Contherm Europe facility opens in Cambridge. You can now find the complete well known range of Contherm Ovens, Incubators and Environmental Chambers available in Europe for the first time.

Contherm Scientific is one of the leading manufacturers of laboratory ovens, incubators and environmental chambers in the world. From a modest start in a converted garage in Upper Hutt, New Zealand in 1962, its founders have built a modern, world-class production plant utilising the latest in computerised technology and production techniques.

This modern facility, set close to the industrial hub of Wellington, provides a quality production environment for the designers, technicians and craftsmen creating a wide range of laboratory equipment for the research professional.

Contherm Scientific currently sells to many markets in the Asia-Pacific region, including Australia, Singapore, Malaysia and Thailand, and recently adding the Indian sub-continent and Middle East to the dealer network. Now Contherm Europe brings to UK and Europe the very best from the Contherm range. From the new facility in Cambridge, England, customers can find a wide range of Contherm ovens, incubators and environmental chambers. Marketing, distribution and servicing throughout Europe is now available from the Cambridge facility.

The Contherm mission is to deliver products and services that meet the quality requirements and expectations of our customers and to promptly deliver those products and services.
